MUCH ADVERTISED WEDDING

Party of Masked Men Abduct Bride Because Ceremony Was Performed During Lent by Registrar.

DUBLIN, April 11.—(Special.)—The death of Rev. Monsignor Bernard McFadden, parish priest of Donagall, recalls one of the tragedies of the "Plan of Campaign" days about twenty-five years ago. Father McFadden, when a young priest, was in the charge of the parish of Donagall, which was one of the worst sufferers from rock rents and absentee landlordism. He was particularly active in the "Plan of Campaign" and the ecclesiastical authorities determined to arrest him. With characteristic stupidity they sent a large force of police and soldiers to arrest him. Sunday morning, while the priest was saying mass they surrounded the chapel. When he came out the officer of constabulary in charge stepped forward and on the steps of the chapel laid his hand on Father McFadden's shoulder and declared him under arrest.

There was a movement among the crowd and the officer lost his head and drew his sword. Someone in the crowd called out: "He is going to kill our priest!" and a volley of stones was thrown. One of them struck the officer on the head, killing him instantly, and several other soldiers and policemen were wounded. The priest was in the party was routed and forced to leave Gweedore without having effected the arrest of the priest. A few days later Father McFadden walked in Lifford, the county town, and surrendered. He was tried and sentenced to a term of imprisonment, which he served in Ararat. The prosecuting counsel asked him if there were any law in Gweedore. "Yes, I am the law in Gweedore," was the priest's reply. During his later years Father McFadden had been an enthusiastic worker for the revival of the ancient Irish tongue. A couple of years ago he was appointed an honorary canon of Westminster cathedral in London and he preached the Irish sermon there on St. Patrick's day last year. He was also a dean of the diocese of Raphoe.

Evicted Tenants Reinstated. Curiously enough, there has just been another echo of the "Plan of Campaign" days, fortunately of a more pleasant character. Some of the famous evicted tenants of Connors have just been reinstated on their holdings in South Wexford twenty years after their eviction. Not all of the tenants have been reinstated, and not all of those who have been reinstated have secured their old homes, for the sufficient reason that some of the old homes have ceased to exist. New homes have been prepared for those who have been reinstated, however, and all the small holdings have been increased by the estates commissioners to economic size.

One of the most striking pronouncements showing how tired the Ulster farmers are becoming of being used as a cat's paw to pull England's chestnuts out of the fire, has just been issued by Mr. Lindsay Crawford, grand master of the Independent Order of Orangemen, appealing for united action among all Irishmen to secure a wide extension of the principle of self-government for Ireland. He declares that the time has come for every Ulsterman who desires to see his country free from misgovernment to take his stand with the national party and he makes the following striking reference to the unionist campaign which is about to be begun in England: "The person in politics and the political herring will in a few days be sent across to England to defend a number of men and their country in the eyes of the stranger. For thirty pieces of silver Judas conspired against his Master. Even in his day, in his day of depravity, had remorse of conscience, and in the end he was hanged himself. The doctor or layman who accepts the gold of the academy for the dirty work of matching his countrymen on British platforms, I would, in the words of holy writ, say, 'Go, thou, and do likewise.'"

Much Advertised Marriage. All Ireland and a good part of England is talking about the marriage of Robert Flynn and Anne Parrelly of Glangevin, near Carrick-on-Shannon, and the troubles which followed it. The Irish papers reported the facts as they were, and the English papers, in pursuance of their custom of chronicling every detail of the incident as illustrative of the barbarous condition of Ireland. The quiet little village of Glangevin has been invaded by shoals of special correspondents from London who do not understand what has happened and make no effort to learn.

The facts are as follows: Robert Flynn, an ex-soldier, owns a comfortable little farm and next to it is another tiny holding which will fall in due course of time to Mary Durkin. The elders of Glangevin decided that the property fitting for Flynn to do was to marry Mary Durkin and "join their lands." At first Flynn was quite agreeable for Mary is a pretty girl and openly expressed her admiration of her handsome neighbor. Moreover, she was quite willing to marry him. Things were so far that Father King, the parish priest, was approached and told that he would have a wedding at the chapel soon after Lent.

Then Flynn met Anne Parrelly and fell in love. He appealed to Father King to marry him, but the priest, thinking that Mary Durkin had been badly treated, tried to persuade him to keep to his original bargain, and pointed out that a marriage in Lent, at any rate, was forbidden by the laws of the church. Flynn and Anne, however, determined not to wait, so they went to Enniskillen and were married before the registrar there.

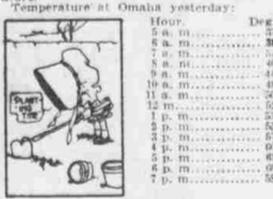

Enforcing Code of Morality. Now a civil marriage in itself is regarded in Ireland as an offense against the church, and a marriage in Lent is much worse, so when the nuptio couple returned they found that the elders of Glangevin were determined to enforce their code of morality. Flynn had invited all his friends to a great party at his house on

FLEET STARTS NORTH

Sixteen Battleships Leave Magdalena Bay for San Diego.

ADMIRAL THOMAS IN COMMAND

Big White Vessels Given Parting Salute by Destroyer Flotilla.

REACH SAN DIEGO TUESDAY

Sixty-Nine Hours Allowed for Trip of 620 Miles.

CITY IS GAILY DECORATED

Officers and Enlisted Men Are to Be Elaborately Entertained During Their Four Days' Stay.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 11.—The Atlantic fleet of sixteen first class battleships began today the last leg of its originally planned cruise from Hampton Roads to the Golden Gate. The four divisions of the fleet weighed anchor at 4 p. m. and three-quarters of an hour later were underway on their way out of Magdalena bay in the wake of the flagship Connecticut. The commander's pennant on the after bridge of the flagship was that of Charles M. Thomas, who began the journey to the Pacific as head of the second squadron, but who was promoted to command during the enforced absence of Rear Admiral Evans, the commander-in-chief. Sailing in a single column formation, according to dispatches received here, the ships passed San Rock and, rounding Entrada Point, one of the headlands marking the gateway to the harbor, turned in a long circle to the north. Six black-hulled destroyers of the torpedo flotilla gave a parting salute to the big white vessels and the historic stay of the American battleships in the Mexican bay was at an end.

An easy journey of 620 miles lies before the fleet, which is scheduled to arrive here and anchor off Magdalena Bay at 11 p. m. on Tuesday. Admiral Thomas has allowed sixty-nine hours for the run up the coast, requiring an average of only nine knots, and will slow down during the latter part of the journey. The early hour of departure was fixed to insure against the possibility of delay in a fog.

When the ships reach San Diego they will have logged 13,500 knots since their departure from Hampton Roads. The Connecticut has 1,200 knots advanced on account of the trip to this port at 11 p. m. to bring the fleet ashore and its subsequent return to Magdalena bay.

Every coast city from San Diego to San Francisco is to see the fleet during the next few weeks. It having been announced that at points where no stop is scheduled the ships will pass ashore within the range of vision of persons gathered close along the bluffs and beaches. Preparations for the four days' stay of the ships at San Diego are practically complete and the city is gaily decorated with flags and patriotic bunting. In this community of 400,000 inhabitants a fund of $20,000 has been raised for the entertainment of the officers and men of the navy. Interest in the coming of the ships is intense, the strong personal sentiment being reflected in the banners which everywhere wave a "welcome to our fleet."

Admiral Evans is doing nicely. He suffered some pain in his left knee, which kept him from leaving the room and also made it necessary for him to remain quiet today. This, however, did not prevent the treatment followed at the springs and we do not believe will in any way retard his recovery.

GOOD WORK FOR INDIANS. Omaha Man Suggests Horse Breeding as Good Task for Red Men.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Z. L. Dalby, Indian inspector for the Crow reservation in Montana, was today before the senate committee on Indian affairs and denied statements made by Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray concerning alleged maladministration of its affairs.

PRINCE HELIE AT THE DOCK

He, with Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, Bids Farewell to Mme. Gould and Children.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Mrs. Anna Gould, with her children and their tutor, sailed for Genoa and Naples today on board the North German Lloyd steamer Frederick Der Grosse. About the same hour, the Prince De Sagan, who has been paying assiduous court to Mme. Gould, sailed for Europe on the American line steamer, St. Paul.

Mme. Gould and her children passed the night on board the steamer Frederick Der Grosse. She was registered on the passenger list of the steamer as Miss Annette Chappin. The Gould party arrived at the pier about midnight last night in five automobiles. Mme. Gould was accompanied to the steamer by the Prince De Sagan and Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, her friends, whom she had been visiting at the Hotel St. Regis. The sailing party was assigned to the captain's suite on the upper deck, and the Prince De Sagan and Mr. and Mrs. Morse remained only long enough to bid them farewell.

All approaches to the captain's suite were carefully guarded before the steamer sailed today, but when the steamer left her dock the Abba De Cayenne, the tutor of the Gould children, was seen at the steamer's side holding up the children to wave their hands to persons on the dock.

The Prince De Sagan was registered on the steamer St. Paul as E. D. Godges. Referring to a report that Prince Helie de Sagan and Mme. Gould had been married in Jersey City last night, Edwin A. Jones, who has been acting as counsel for Mme. Gould, said:

"The prince and Mme. Gould are not married and not engaged, but no man can tell what will happen in the future."

"The prince talked freely with newspaper men while waiting for his steamer to sail. He was asked if the report was true that he and Mme. Gould had been secretly married."

"No, no, it is not true," he replied, and added: "The relations of Mme. Gould and myself are the same today as the day I arrived here. At that time there was an understanding between us, but the general understanding between us now that there was then."

He declined to make any explanation of the nature of the understanding of which he spoke.

MORE INDICTMENTS IN DAKOTA

Federal Grand Jury Accuses Ranchman of Peculiar Interference with Mail.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., April 11.—(Special.)—The United States grand jury which convened in this city Tuesday of this week has returned a number of additional indictments. After reporting that the jury retired to resume work on other cases which yet are pending before it.

William Skinner was indicted on the charge of having induced liquor into that part of the Standing Rock Indian reservation which extends into South Dakota.

J. E. Albee was indicted for a similar offense, also alleged to have been committed on the Standing Rock reservation. An indictment was returned against Florence E. Olney, a rancher residing in Stanley county, on the charge of obstructing the United States mail. The indictment against Mr. Olney contains three counts, growing out of his alleged crime in interfering with a rural mail carrier in Stanley county.

This case is an unusual one. A daughter of the accused is postmistress at Olney, a postoffice named after the ranchman and situated on his ranch. On the day of the trouble the daughter was a carrier near the house when the rural mail carrier arrived. After waiting the required time he left the postoffice. His departure without the mail was discovered by Mr. Olney, who is alleged to have pursued him and at the point of a six-shooter compelled him to return to the postoffice and take the mail which was awaiting him.

Out of this grew the serious charge of obstructing the United States mail and interfering with a mail carrier in the performance of his duty.

TRIGGS DECIDES TO MARRY

Former Chicago Professor Takes One of His Students as Wife in West.

CHICAGO, April 11.—O. L. Triggs, who as professor of English literature at the University of Chicago attracted wide notice by proclaiming that John D. Rockefeller was a greater genius than Shakespeare and that Longfellow is overrated, according to information received here last night has been married to Miss Ada Beall Cox of Canton, O. She was a member of a class taught by him at the University of Chicago. Later she engaged in settlement work at Philadelphia and New York. Prof. Triggs' connection with the University of Chicago was severed some years ago because of his peculiar views.

It is in which he was divorced from a former wife that he did not regard marriage as conducive to morals. According to information here the wedding with Miss Cox was performed yesterday at Turlock, Cal. by Mr. Triggs' father, who is pastor of a Methodist church at Watsonville, Cal.

KANSAS STINGY WITH MONEY. Chancellor Frank Strong Says Not Enough Support is Given Academic Training.

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—"Kansas is in grave danger of being robbed of a great and useful state university," said Chancellor Frank Strong at a Kansas university alumni banquet in the university club rooms last night. "The legal status of our state university is a peculiar one and it prevents the citizens of the state from giving the institution their undivided support. Our state constitution provides that normal and agricultural departments be maintained separately from the great branch of the university and it is this fact which is likely to ruin our institution."

A committee consisting of John McCardle, O. J. Pickard and William Key was appointed to formulate plans as to how this $500,000 premium should be offered. This premium is to be outside of the regular premium list. The Douglas County Agricultural society then adjourned, and a general meeting of the farmers was called with John McCardle as chairman and O. J. Pickard as secretary.

A general discussion upon the part that Douglas county should take in the National Corn exposition was then gone into and the expediency of organizing an association auxiliary to the Agricultural society to work in harmony with it. This organization was finally effected, with Charles

CORN SHOW RESULTS

Twelve Departments Organized to Carry on the Enterprise.

HEAD OF EACH IS APPOINTED

Prominent Business Men Selected to Manage Affairs.

BENSON PLEDGES ITS SUPPORT

Farmers of that Vicinity Join Hands to Make it Success.

THIRTY OF THEM AT MEETING

Samson Vouchsafes the Benign Approval of the King Who Adopts Ear of Corn as His Emblem.

Saturday was a day of results for the National Corn Show to be established as a permanent national institution in Omaha. The Corn Show association announced the organization of its departments, twelve in number, with a prominent business man at each head, and the farmers near Benson met at the town hall of that town and joined hands with the promoters of this great enterprise. Prof. J. Wilkes Jones, manager of the corn show, addressed the Benson farmers and a lively interest was manifested.

Samson, lord high chamberlain to King Ak-Sar-Ben, has adopted an ear of Nebraska corn as the design for the official emblem of his knights for the fall festival of 1908.

This action of the board of governors was taken not only because the design is appropriate for the great booster organization of Omaha, but it will serve to keep the National Corn exhibition which is to be held in Omaha in December, constantly before the people for several months before the great corn show opens.

When the full board of directors of the National Corn association met Friday the following resolution was adopted and forwarded to Samson, the same being done on prickly-pear paper and hand-illuminated: "That the thanks of this association are due to the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben for their handsome action in selecting corn as emblem for the 1908 Ak-Sar-Ben festival."

We highly appreciated this cordial endorsement of our show and the fraternal spirit indicated by this action, and the thanks of the directors of the National Corn show are hereby extended to the board of governors.

It is further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to Samson, very respectfully yours, F. L. HALLER, Special Committeeman.

Heads of Departments. Besides forwarding the card of thanks to the Ak-Sar-Ben and ordering it published everywhere, the directors named the heads of the twelve departments for the big corn exhibition. Each of the chairmen will select committees from the board of directors, which consists of business men of Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs. The following are the chairmen named: Premiums—F. L. Haller. Concessions and Admissions—T. F. Sturges. Exhibits—D. B. Fuller. Decorations—Rome Miller. Publicity—C. F. McGrew. Amusements—H. M. Van Brunt. Railroads—E. Bookingham. Live Stock—Intervenor McCulloch. United Organization—Victor Brandeis.

Fred Paffenrath having resigned as a member of the executive committee of the association, D. B. Fuller of the Byrnes-Hammer company, wholesale dry goods dealer, was elected a member to fill the vacancy.

J. Wilkes Jones, manager of the association, reported that he had just returned from Ohio and Indiana. As a result of the meeting held with the Indiana Agricultural board, commissioners will be named by the governor and Indiana will have an exhibit when the show opens in Omaha next December. Ohio will very likely have a similar exhibit, though the state board of agriculture of that state has not yet taken action.

The state of Minnesota has applied for space in which to show the products of that state and a reservation has been made.

Benson Farmers Take Hold. J. Wilkes Jones addressed a meeting of farmers of Douglas county in the town hall at Benson yesterday afternoon. He urged upon the corn growers of Douglas county to prepare for the exposition.

"The purpose of the exposition is not for corn alone, but to stimulate an interest among farmers to grow a little better crop of corn than they have grown before. It is my belief that there was something about farm life we have never seen before," said Mr. Jones. "We must seek to produce a few more bushels of grain and of a little better quality than we have ever produced. None of the great corn states produce any better corn than can be produced right here in Douglas county and over the river in Iowa. The soil and climate about Omaha cannot be surpassed for corn growing."

He spoke also of the production of wheat, oats and barley, and particularly urged the raising of better crops than can be produced in the best results. Pottawattamie county, Iowa, and Douglas county, Nebraska, were the only two counties of the corn belt district that were to be given special space in the exposition. He asked the farmers to visit the headquarters of the National Corn exposition in the Bee building, as the association needed and wanted their counsel and advice.

Thirty Farmers Present. The meeting was attended by about thirty farmers and was first called to order as the Douglas County Agricultural society, with President J. W. Shoemaker as chairman, and C. W. Harvey as secretary. A motion was carried that the Douglas County Agricultural society should award a special premium of $50 for corn sown at Douglas county fair, and that the same or duplicate exhibit should be shown at the National Corn exposition.

A committee consisting of John McCardle, O. J. Pickard and William Key was appointed to formulate plans as to how this $500,000 premium should be offered. This premium is to be outside of the regular premium list. The Douglas County Agricultural society then adjourned, and a general meeting of the farmers was called with John McCardle as chairman and O. J. Pickard as secretary.

A general discussion upon the part that Douglas county should take in the National Corn exposition was then gone into and the expediency of organizing an association auxiliary to the Agricultural society to work in harmony with it. This organization was finally effected, with Charles

ALASKAN ROADS TOO HEAVY. Driver of American Car Turns His to Seattle—Miles His Limit.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 11.—A cable dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer from Valdez Alaska, says: The American automobile and crew has left on the steamer, Bertha, for Seattle. A public reception was given them by the Chamber of Commerce and the city of Valdez. The car was driven by Walter Schuler when interviewed said the Alaskans had his sympathy, as the depth of the snow and the chuck holes absolutely prohibited any chance of the automobiles running a mile.

He says he will return to Seattle and ship for Vladivostok to make up the time limit lost on the Alaskan trip. He will attempt to charter the sea going tugboat, Walcott, at Otha to take the car and crew across to Siberia. It is doubtful if this can be done.

MRS. EDDY FAVORS THE NAVY. Realizes Its Necessity Though for Years She Has Prayed that Wars May Cease.

BOSTON, April 11.—The Christian Science Sentinel, published in this city, today says, quoting from Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder and head of the Christian Science church: "For many years I have prayed daily that there be no more barbarous slaughtering of our fellow-beings; prayed that all the peoples on earth and the islands of the sea have one God, one mind; love God supremely, and love their neighbor as themselves."

National disagreements can be, and should be, arbitrated wisely, fairly, and fully settled. It is unquestionable, however, that at this hour the armament of navies is necessary, for the purpose of preventing war and preserving peace among the nations.
